Building the Next Generation of Scholars in Egyptian Public Universities Fellowship (Phase II)

AUC's School of Global Affairs and Public Policy and the Ford Foundation are launching the second phase of the Building the Next Generation of Scholars (BNGS) in Egyptian Public Universities fellowship — a program aimed at developing the capacity of young academicians in public policy research. To benefit from the fellowship, candidates must pursue at AUC either a master’s degree in public policy, public administration or a relevant social science discipline, as well as a diploma in public policy.

Eligibility

Applicants must:

- Be tenured teaching assistants at Egyptian public universities in the fields of economics, journalism, mass communication, political science, public policy, public administration, law or sociology.
- Demonstrate proficiency in the English language through adequate results in TOEFL iBT or IELTS tests.
- Complete program admission requirements, including the Graduate Record Examinations (GRE) for economics applicants.

Award

The fellowship is awarded for two academic years. It covers a full waiver of tuition fees, textbooks, student activities, monthly stipend, one semester of English-language studies (optional), housing allowance for students from outside Cairo, as well as AUC bus transportation.

To Apply

- Submit completed graduate and fellowship applications, clearly stating a request for the Building the Next Generation of Scholars fellowship. Supporting documents should also be provided.
- Submit a 10-page research proposal relevant to your future studies (3,000 - 4,000 words). The topic of this proposal will not be binding to candidates once they are accepted into the program.
