

land evaluation of geomorphic units in the eastern desert of egypt using advanced technology

Abdel Rahman Sayed Abdel Rahman M. El-Shemy

Parent rock strutures are considered the origin of the soil parant materials, they are composed of sedimentary limestone rocks surrouding the lowland from north west and south direction , they have no potentiality for agriculture but they are considered the catchments ares for water harvesting which is the main water resource for the development of the area.